Businesses in every industry have a need to efficiently move and share data. Be it with business partners, clients, or other business units within the enterprise, this often involves moving data files from one entity to another. Data management has become a business critical function that simply cannot fail and thus requires proactive procedures to address technical complications. The Centrix FTP Administrator provides a cost effective and simple data management tool for companies that need to automate the movement of data, centralize the administration of this activity, and be alerted if tasks fail.

Maximize Your Service Level by Minimizing Operational Risk

The Centrix FTP Administrator (FTPA) simplifies the administration and execution of data file transfers, while also addressing failed tasks. Be it copying files from one network folder to another, initiating FTP transfers to/from a business partner or automatically emailing reports to specific employees, the system minimizes the operational risk exposure for the organization by providing centralized administration, automation and error handling.

From the management console, an administrator can define workflow rules, execute tasks and report on data transfer activity. The system also accommodates automatic restart rules for FTP timeout conditions and email notification if a task fails to complete. With FTPA, your service level is maximized while manual intervention is minimized.
