Streamline Payroll Processing | Automate Vacation Requests

As financial institutions continue to look for ways to cut expenses and become more efficient in 2009, automating employee time cards is a great place to start. For those still using a paper-based or punch-in punch-out systems, cost savings and accuracy improvements can be substantial. For financial institutions already utilizing such a system, now may be the time to reevaluate those costs.

An automated time and attendance system will not only streamline your time collection environment it will save you money by actually reducing the time spent processing payroll. By using an automated system, errors are reduced when managers process employee exceptions, approve time worked, and grant or deny time-off requests. Combine these features with a company directory and superior analytical reporting, you have an end-to-end solution that increases employee productivity.
